Barney is a socially awkward schoolboy who receives a robot named Ron -- a walking, talking, digitally connected device that's supposed to be his best friend. Barney is excited to finally have his own robot -- until his new toy starts to hilariously malfunction, drawing the attention of a shady executive who wants to protect his company's stock price at all costs.

A wonderful charming film learning real meaning of friendship and trust, stand up each other. I love the style animation they went for also show how families caught up in technology forget to react with each other love idea Ron learn by experience then been programmed in him to learn to be real friends

A brand-new Wallace & Gromit movie headed to Netflix, following Chicken Run 2----- D ANDERSON

Wallace & Gromit are back, Netflix announced e pair will get a new film at the streaming giant — although, in the UK, it will debut first on the BBC before coming to Netflix. The studio also revealed some key details about the Chicken Run sequel, also from Aardman Animations, including the cast, a 2023 release window, and new subtitle: Dawn of the Nugget. Wallace & Gromit creator, Nick Park, will co-direct the duo's untitled stop-motion-animated movie with Aardman's creative director, Merlin Crossingham. Mark Burton — known for writing animated films like Shaun the Sheep, Madagascar, and Wallace & Gromit: The Curse of the Were-rabbit — will write the movie. The animated feature is currently set for a 2024 release date, with early storyboarding already going on at Aardman. While the new Wallace & Gromit film doesn't have a title yet, we do know a bit about the plot. Wallace, the cheese-obsessed, sweater-wearing inventor, and his bizarrely proficient dog, Gromit, are back in the workshop. Wallace invents a "smart gnome," which he quickly loses control of, leaving Gromit to clean up the mess and save the day.

Wallace and Gromit to return for another cracking adventure!

Arrowverse comes full circle with its first comic book crossover event, Earth-Prime

The CW's DC television shows are coming full circle to a comic book event set in the canon of the Arrowverse universe.

Launching April 5, Earth-Prime is a three-month, six-issue event with the first five issues spotlighting a current individual CW/DC series, with the final issue (Earth-Prime #6) being a full-on Arrowverse crossover.

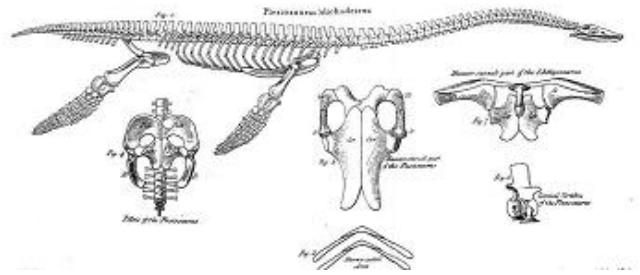

Actors, writers, and even showrunners from the shows will be involved in the creation of each double-sized issue approved by the show's producers.

Mary Anning was an English fossil collector, dealer, and paleontologist who became known around the world for finds she made in Jurassic marine fossil beds in the cliffs along the English Channel at Lyme Regis in the county of Dorset in Southwest England.

What was Mary Anning's most famous discovery? Plesiosaurus

Over the next few years, Anning grew up and slowly took over the family fossil business. In 1823, she made her biggest discovery when she found the first complete Plesiosaurus that had ever been discovered. Anning was one of nine children, but only she and her brother, Joseph, survived into adulthood. A fossil is the remains of a plant or animal that has turned into rock over thousands of years. Fossils tend to be found in sedimentary rocks such as limestone. Anning died of breast cancer in 1847 at the age of 47.

Why does Lyme Regis have so many fossils?

For thousands of years the Lyme cliffs have crumbled and fallen, revealing great numbers of fossils which have been washed out of the crumbling rock by the sea.

Born: 21 May 1799, Lyme Regis

Died: 9 March 1847, Lyme Regis

First pig-to-human heart transplant: what can scientists learn? The first person to receive a transplanted heart from a genetically modified pig is doing well after the procedure last week in Baltimore, Maryland. Transplant surgeons hope the advance will enable them to give more people animal organs, but many ethical and technical hurdles remain.

"It's been a long road to get to this point, and it's very exciting we are at a point where a group was ready to try this," says Megan Sykes, a surgeon and immunologist at Columbia University in New York City. "I think there's going to be a lot of interesting things to be learned."

Physicians and scientists worldwide have for decades been pursuing the goal of transplanting animal organs into people, known as xenotransplantation.

Fall off of the radar news

So, does his discovery mean he is guaranteed a job at NASA one day?

"I've no idea about NASA's hiring practices but it can't hurt! It's a good thing to have on my CV," he says.

He adds that the space agency has been "impressed" by what he achieved on his internship though.

"My mentor has been very supportive and excited. I think NASA is surprised with the amount of attention this has been getting."

Today, he wears his NASA fleece with pride (over the Star Wars t-shirt of course). Not a gift from the agency to reward him for his achievements, he explains, but bought with a discount in the employee shop.

Worth it though, as according to Wolf it's a "nice jacket."

Star Wars fans take note - the new planet orbits two stars like Luke Skywalker's fictional home, Tatooine

This collection features some of Tom's outstanding colour and black & white strip work for IPC/Fleetway from titles like Buster, Whoopee! Jackpot, Whizzer & Chips and Oink! amongst others. With quotes from the man himself and some extra, added treasures, this is a must have for fans of British humor comics both young and old!

Tom Paterson is a Scottish artist who works in a style elaborated from Leo Baxendale's later work. He started working in comics while still at school, and has worked extensively for both IPC and DC Thomson. He is best known for drawing "Sweeny Toddler" in Shiver and Shake, Whoopee! Whizzer and Chips and Buster (1974-1990), and "Calamity James" in The Beano (1986-).

In the magical land of Xadia, magic comes from six primal sources: the sun, moon, stars, sky, earth and ocean. When human mages create a seventh kind of magic -- dark magic -- they start capturing and harvesting the unique magical creatures they need as ingredients, which sparks a war between Xadia and the Human Kingdoms. Three kids from opposite sides of the conflict -- two princes and an elven assassin sent to kill them -- discover a secret that could change everything and decide to join forces and go on an epic journey. That trek could be their only hope of ending the war and restoring peace to both worlds.

A gas giant exoplanet that orbits a G-type star, which is similar to TOI-2180 b. / NASA

Gigantic Planet Found Hidden in Plain Sight

By Good News Network -Jan 25, 2022

----- D ANDERSON

An astronomer and a group of eagle-eyed citizen scientists have discovered a giant gas planet hidden from view by typical stargazing tools.

The planet, TOI-2180 b, has the same diameter as Jupiter, but is nearly three times more massive. Researchers at UC Riverside also believe it contains 105 times the mass of Earth in elements heavier than helium and hydrogen. Nothing quite like it exists in our solar system.

“TOI-2180 b is such an exciting planet to have found,” said UCR astronomer Paul Dalba, who helped confirm the planet’s existence. “It hits the trifecta of 1) having a several-hundred-day orbit, 2) being relatively close to Earth (379 lightyears is considered close for an exoplanet), and 3) us being able to see it transit in front of its star. It is very rare for astronomers to discover a planet that checks all three of these boxes.”

Dalba also explained that the planet is special because it takes 261 days to complete a journey around its star, a relatively long time compared to many known gas giants outside our solar system. Its relative proximity to Earth and the brightness of the star it orbits also make it likely astronomers will be able to learn more about it.

In order to locate exoplanets, which orbit stars other than our sun, NASA’s TESS satellite looks at one part of the sky for a month, then moves on. It is searching for dips in brightness that occur when a planet crosses in front of a star.

“The rule of thumb is that we need to see three ‘dips’ or transits before we believe we’ve found a planet,” Dalba said. A single transit event could be caused by a telescope with a jitter, or a star masquerading as a planet. For these reasons, TESS isn’t focused on these single transit events. However, a small group of citizen scientists is.

Looking over TESS data, Tom Jacobs, a group member and former U.S. naval officer, saw light dim from the TOI-2180 star, just once. His group alerted Dalba, who specializes in studying planets that take a long time to orbit their stars.

Dan Dare is a British science fiction comic hero, created by illustrator Frank Hampson who also wrote the first stories.[2] Dare appeared in the Eagle comic story Dan Dare, Pilot of the Future from 1950 to 1967 (and subsequently in reprints), and dramatized seven times a week on Radio Luxembourg (1951–1956).

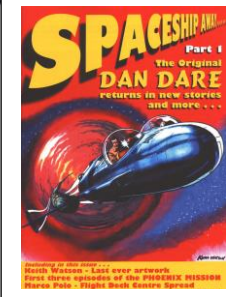

The stories were set in the late 1990s, but the dialogue and manner of the characters is reminiscent of British war films of the 1950s. Dan Dare has been described as "Biggles in Space" and as the British equivalent of Buck Rogers. Dan Dare was distinguished by its long, complex storylines, snappy dialogue and meticulously illustrated comic-strip artwork by Hampson and other artists, including Harold Johns, Don Harley, Bruce Cornwell, Greta Tomlinson, Frank Bellamy, and Keith Watson.

Dan Dare returned to comic strips in 2000 AD in 1977 until 1979 and in the relaunched Eagle in 1980 until 1984. The most recent Dan Dare, originally created by Frank Hampson, is written by Rod Barzilay, and drawn by Don Harley.

Spaceship Away was created by Rod Barzilay as an attempt to revive the original Dan Dare of the 1950s and early 1960s. It was born after Rod's efforts to arrange publication of "The Phoenix Mission", a story he had written, and persuaded original Dan Dare artist Keith Watson to illustrate in pastiche style. This ran up against commercial lack of interest. Barzilay commenced publication of in 2003 as a vehicle for his story. Other artists and writers with an interest in Dan Dare came on board. Following Watson's death, "The Phoenix Mission" was taken over from the second issue onwards by Don Harley with later help from Tim Booth.

Jet was a short-lived weekly comic published by IPC in 1971. It lasted for 22 issues before merging into Buster. Its not enduring strip was Ken Reid's "Faceache", which carried on in Buster for some time and is today well-regarded by Reid's admirers.

Pickles is a daily and Sunday comic strip by Brian Crane focusing on a retired couple in their seventies, Earl and Opal Pickles. Pickles has been published since April 2, 1990

Amazing News Catch up

On Oct. 13, 2021 actor William Shatner, 90, best known for his role as Star Trek’s Captain James T. Kirk, went to space for real aboard a Blue Origin New Shepard rocket. He was aloft for only 10 minutes—but they were 10 minutes that forever transformed him. The day after his return, Shatner—now the oldest person to have ever traveled to space—sat down with TIME to talk about his experience.

“I hope I never recover from this,” Shatner said following his touchdown in the company of three civilian crew mates.

William Shatner as James T Kirk in Star Trek

From Shakespeare to the Shatman: who is William Shatner?

“I’m so filled with emotion about what just happened. It’s extraordinary, extraordinary. It’s so much larger than me and life. It hasn’t got anything to do with the little green men and the blue orb. It has to do with the enormity and the quickness and the suddenness of life and death.

“To see the blue color whip by you, and now you’re staring into blackness ... everybody in the world needs to do this. Everybody in the world needs to see this.”

‘2000 AD’ And Its 45th Anniversary Year
It seems insane to think that it’s 2022 in less than three weeks... but that means that we’ve got loads of comics to look forward to with publishers all over releasing their lineups for the new year. And today, we got a look at what’s coming from 2000 AD.

The big news, of course, is that it’s a huge year for 2000 AD as they’re celebrating 45 thrill-powered years since Tharg first brought us his comic back in 1977. There’s already plenty announced for the 45th anniversary, including The 2000 AD Encyclopedia and the Brian Bolland and Mick McMahon Apex Editions, showcasing artwork scanned at high resolution and presented at original size.

And in May, 45 Years of 2000 AD sees forty-five stellar artists from comics and illustration give us their unique takes on some of 2000 AD’s most famous characters, including Michael Allred, Jamie Smart, Annie Wu, Mick McMahon, Kevin O’Neill, and Rachael Stott.

A famed lost spaceship, the USS HOPE, returns to Earth after vanishing thirty-five years prior. The lone survivor (Richard Madden) disembarks mysteriously looking the exact same age as when he left. Following the ensuing media chaos, he finally reunites with his formerly identical twin brother (now an old man) for a one-on-one meeting. But what starts as a joyful reconciliation soon leads to dark revelations that threaten their relationship -- and the future of humanity.

YOUNG ENTREPRENEURS INTERESTED IN SPACE AND ASTRONOMY HAVE THE CHANCE TO WIN £50,000 IN A COMPETITION BEING LAUNCHED BY SWINDON-BASED UK SPACE AGENCY.

The competition, which is in its fifth year is being run in conjunction with the UK launching its first-ever satellite into space later this year.

Satellife is looking for new ideas in how to use data collected from space to benefit daily life, from supporting local communities and the NHS, to monitoring the environment and tackling climate change.

The money won from the competition will be shared across three age groups; 11-14, 15-18 and 19-22.

In 2022 the first satellite launches will take place from UK spaceports, with the first horizontal launch from an aircraft carrier expected from Spaceport Cornwall, followed by a vertical launch from Shetland’s SaxaVord Spaceport.

Satellites support the economy and everyday life, and this competition gives people, the chance to test their ideas with space experts.

The judging panel will be made up of experts including industry representatives and the UK Space Agency, Satellite Applications Catapult and the European Space Agency (ESA). The UK is the leading investor in ESA’s business applications programme.

All winners will go on to pitch their ideas to a panel of ‘dragons’ at the Harwell Space Cluster in June for the chance to win further prizes.

The UK Space Agency is committed to championing the power of space to inspire people and to offer greener, smarter solutions for businesses, supporting a more sustainable future.

Science Minister George Freeman MP said: “Britain is set to become the first nation in Europe to offer small satellite launch, building on our world-leading satellite manufacturing industry. Seeing satellites launch from the UK for the first time will be a huge moment for the UK space tech sector.

“The Satellife competition is designed to inspire the next generation of British space scientists, engineers and entrepreneurs, by helping our young innovators unleash their imaginations and turn their ideas into real-life proposals that could eventually transform our lives - from supporting our transition to net zero, to improving local healthcare services. News 3rd February

Comic Cuts was a 3006 issue magazine format series, published in the UK from May 17 1890 to Sept 12 1953.

Originally started by Alfred Harmsworth and his company Amalgamated Press (AP) as a reprint series of American strips, it grew into a British institution.

The series survived mergers with other series, such as Golden Penny Comics (Feb 4 1928), Jolly Comic (Nov 4 1939), and Larks (May 25 1940). In 1953, Comic Cuts merged with Knockout and ceased publishing under the Comic Cuts name.

Walking around Brussels with Tintin Quick and Flupke fresco

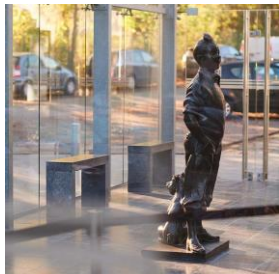

It is in the gags of these two mischievous urchins that we find the deep traces of Hergé's youth in Brussels.

An amusing detail is that Quick and Flupke appear in one vignette in Tintin in the Congo and another one in The Shooting Star. Tintin statue (Uccle Cultural Centre)

In the Cultural Centre of Uccle you will find the original life-size statue of Tintin and Snowy. It is the work of Nat Neujean, a Belgian sculptor. Raymond Leblanc commissioned it to celebrate the 30th anniversary of Tintin magazine.

Villa Avenue Delleur

This house inspired Hergé to draw Professor Tarragon's residence in The Seven Crystal Balls.

Place du Jeu de Balle

Since 1873, the Place du Jeu de Balle has been home to numerous second-hand and antique dealers. More than 500 stalls take over the "Old Market" every day, offering professionals and amateurs alike a multitude of treasures. At the beginning of The Secret of the Unicorn, Tintin goes to the flea market and discovers the model of The Unicorn ship, container of so many mysteries.

LOVE OF COMICS

A rare piece of British comics history goes under the hammer , when the online bidding for Comic Cuts Issue 1 closes over at Compal closes.

We covered the auction in general earlier in the month, but this lot deserves closer attention given its importance to our industry.

Only nine copies of the first issue of the UK's third longest running comic, started in 1890 by reporter Alfred Harmsworth (later Lord Northcliffe, founder of the Daily Mail) are known to exist, one of them in the British Library. This item is expected to sell for around £350 – 400 by the auction organizers.

Comic Cuts was not the first British comic: that privilege is accorded by many to Funny Folks, first published in December 1874, published by James Henderson as a free supplement to The Weekly Budget Christmas Triple Number for 1874, a successor to satirical cartoon sheets like Everybody's Album, an eight-page tabloid with initially a roughly 50/50 mix of text and pictures, though picture strips would soon come to dominate the title. on NOVEMBER 25, 2012

Vincent Zurzolo holds Action Comics #1, which sold recently for $3.25 million, making it the most expensive comic ever sold.

COMIC TREATS

Nancy is an American daily and Sunday comic strip, originally written and drawn by Ernie Bushmiller and distributed by United Feature Syndicate. The character of Nancy, a slightly chubby and precocious eight-year-old, first appeared in the strip Fritzi Ritz about the airheaded flapper title character. Larry Whittington began Fritzi Ritz in 1922, and it was taken over by Bushmiller three years later.

Nancy was reprinted in the UK comic book, The Topper, from the 1950s through the 1970s.

Beryl the Peril is a fictional character created by David Law, the creator of Dennis the Menace, for issue 1 of The Topper comic published by DC Thomson & Co. Limited. Like Dennis, she had black and red apparel, and devilishly tormented her parents and other members of her community.

First appearance: The Topper issue 1 (7 February 1953)

Windows 10's popular free Sketchbook drawing app goes paid after ownership change

July 6, 2021 by Brad Stenhenson

In a bit of a surprise move, the popular drawing app, Autodesk SketchBook, has rebranded as Sketchbook and been spun off from Autodesk into its own company, Sketchbook, Inc.

"After careful consideration and evaluation, we found the perfect home for SketchBook with a company formed by people who previously built and evangelized the SketchBook brand," Autodesk's Thomas Heermann wrote in a blog post. "This company, appropriately named Sketchbook, is focused wholly on the health and growth of SketchBook and its community."

Since this announcement was made, the listings for the Sketchbook app have begun to update in app stores across all of its supported platforms from Android and iOS to Windows 10. With the update, Sketchbook will be switching back to being a paid app, just over three years since it changed from paid to free. No subscription model is planned.

As of the time of this writing, Android and iOS users who currently have the app in their accounts will continue to receive updates going forward (presumably at no charge) while those on a Mac computer will need to upgrade to the new paid Sketchbook Pro app. The

AMAZING NEWS

A Hero Just Passing By Saves Young Mom and Son From Dying in Wyoming House Fire
34-year-old mother and her four young children, ages 12, 8, 6 and 4, were asleep in their Jamestown house when a fire erupted in the home.

Ryan Pasborg was running late for work Tuesday morning as he traveled from his home in Green River towards town when he smelled smoke and saw flames coming from a bedroom window. Use Fire Pasborg told authorities that he could not see anything inside because of heavy smoke, so he crawled on his hands and knees on the floor several feet into the kitchen before he bumped into the small child. He immediately grabbed the boy around the waist, picked him up and carried him outside.

With a windchill temperature well below zero, Pasborg quickly put all four children in his truck to keep them warm before entering the burning home a second time, this time crawling through the kitchen deeper into the house in search of the children's missing mother.

Moments later, Pasborg found the woman lying on the floor, badly burned and struggling to breath. After dragging her outside, he noticed that she was unresponsive and no longer breathing, so he began performing lifesaving measures until she suddenly took a gasp of air.
